Mike Stavila Draftsperson

Education:

Putnam Valley High School– Putnam Valley, NY
Westchester Community College– Valhalla, NY
Apex Technical School– Long Island City, NY

Experience:

Mike Stavila has recently joined our team at Raymond/Raymond Associates as a draftsperson and we are very excited to welcome him to our team. Mr. Stavila graduated from Putnam Valley High School in 2008 and went on to work for GW Manufacturing as a drafter. There he learned to produce technical product drawings and floor plans in AutoCAD. This gave Mr. Stavila an increased interest in drafting. Soon after, Mr. Stavila attended Westchester Community College where he received his Civil Engineering Tech and Drafting Certificate.

In May of 2014 Mike attended Apex Technical School in the Electrical program. In June he became an Electrical Apprentice for Spirelli Electric where he did a large range of electrical work, including installing fixtures and receptacles and worked as a Material Manager. Mr. Stavila was enjoying his time in the electrical field, but wanted to get back to drafting in AutoCAD. Mike has proven to be an asset to our team and coupled with his previous drafting experience and knowledge of electrical, he is excited to be learning the Food Service Design trade at a rapid pace.

Among Mr. Stavila's growing interest in drafting, his other abilities and accomplishments include an OSHA 10 hour Construction Training and First Aid and CPR Certification. He has strong written and oral communication abilities and also has extensive knowledge of industrial machinery, lathes and milling machines. Mr. Stavila is fluent in English and Romanian and also has a written and verbal proficiency in Spanish.
